FIRE RATED DOORS

Fire rated door or fire-resistant door is a type of door that is specially designed to prevent the spread of fire and smoke. It is made up of fire rated materials and is able to resist the fire for a specific amount of time. These doors are constructed as a part of a passive fire protection system, which reduces the spread of fire and smoke between separate compartments of a structure. It also enables people to move out of the rooms safely. Fire rated doors will help cease the spread of fire in most critical conditions in commercial & industrial spaces.
